Ha llegado la hora de crear valor para enriquecer vidas. Ha llegado la hora de que coloques ideas y proyectos en las seis canastas para innovar. Un libro para los emprendedores, ejecutivos de empresas, académicos, profesionistas, educadores, consultores, estudiantes, comerciantes, técnicos, amas de casa... y para todos aquellos preocupados por su futuro. En este momento, todos los convencionalismos son cuestionados, lo mismo en el arte que en la ciencia, la tecnología, la política, la religión, la familia, la economía, la educación. Nada quedará fuera. Con todo y que la incertidumbre hace que el presente se parezca cada vez menos al futuro, no hay ninguna razón para que el miedo nos paralice. Todas las predicciones serán inútiles. Lo importante es prepararnos. El mundo estuvo congelado en nuestras mentes por más de un siglo y ahora nos desafía para reinventarnos y pensar diferente. Hoy el imperativo no es crear o morir sino innovar y vivir. En un mundo que ha cambiado, el ser eficiente no será suficiente, debemos ir más allá de la mejora continua. Este libro ha sido escrito para servirte de guía en este desafío. Y para ello tendrás que promover una cultura que combine: - Creatividad continua. - Aseguramiento continuo. - Mejora continua. - Abandono continuo. - Innovación continua. - Lo que se traducirá en un crecimiento rentable y sustentable continuo.

A tragic family history told in a collection of imaginary letters to a famed collector, Moise de Camondo Letters to Camondo is a collection of imaginary letters from Edmund de Waal to Moise de Camondo, the banker and art collector who created a spectacular house in Paris, now the Musée Nissim de Camondo, and filled it with the greatest private collection of French eighteenth-century art. The Camondos were a Jewish family from Constantinople, "the Rothschilds of the East," who made their home in Paris in the 1870s and became philanthropists, art collectors, and fixtures of Belle Époque high society, as well as being targets of antisemitism—much like de Waal's relations, the Ephrussi family, to whom they were connected. Moise de Camondo created a spectacular house and filled it with art for his son, Nissim; after Nissim was killed in the First World War, the house was bequeathed to the French state. Eventually, the Camondos were murdered by the Nazis. After de Waal, one of the world's greatest ceramic artists, was invited to make an exhibition in the Camondo house, he began to write letters to Moise de Camondo. These fifty letters are deeply personal reflections on assimilation, melancholy, family, art, the vicissitudes of history, and the value of memory.
